

MJ Hudson strikes new partnership to enhance liquid alternative strategies and hedge funds coverage

London, 7 June: MJ Hudson, the specialist service provider to the asset management industry, today announces a partnership with Kaleidoscope Capital, enhancing the coverage of liquid alternative strategies and emerging managers, within its investment consulting practice.

Kaleidoscope Capital is an independent advisory firm focused on providing a full range of solution driven services for alternative investments, with a focus on liquid alternative investment strategies and actively managed total return investments.

Founder and CEO of Kaleidoscope, Davide Alfano, said:

“We are seeing significant renewed interest from investors to allocate into liquid alternative investments and absolute return strategies in the current low yield investment environment. Our extensive experience and broad network of relationships within this area allow us to identify which managers have the relevant strategy and skills to succeed. Through our processes and methodologies, which have been refined over many years of portfolio management experience, we enable our clients to invest in the space with increased confidence and efficacy.”

Having worked with MJ Hudson for a number of years, I know the quality of the team and infrastructure they have built. Partnering with MJ Hudson allows us to focus 100% of our time where it really counts for our clients: finding and qualifying the very best managers and investment solutions in liquid alternatives.”

Commenting on the partnership, Will Roxburgh, Managing Director of MJ Hudson’s Fund Management Solutions team said “Working with Davide and his team allows us to add more firepower and provide even deeper coverage of less well-established managers – expanding the services we can offer to clients”
